3. Reports and Updates

A Discussion on Sewer/Water Rate Increase Freeze for Elderly and Low Income Families

Jamison said that this idea arose as a result of the recent water rate increases. Cotter gave a brief explanation about the need for the recent water rate increases. He explained that the system is a pay for what you use system, meaning the more water you use the more you pay per unit (a tiered rate structure). He said if you are a conservative water user, you will pay less. Karsky asked what percentage of users are at a rate of 4 units per month. Cotter said that he didn't have that information available today but said that it could be quantified if needed.

Jamison asked if Cotter could cross reference the number of citizens that qualify for the elderly property tax freeze and give him an estimate of the approximate dollars that would be saved. Cotter explained that about 100 people that would be affected and said that a 10% rate reduction would equate to approximately $1600; a 15% rate reduction would equate to approximately $2400 and a 20% rate reduction would equate to approximately $3200. The rate increase for 2012 is 14%.

To freeze the rate back to 2011 would be just under $2000 for the 100 households affected. Discussion occurred about the budgetary impact of cost to administer such a program. Discussion occurred about the uncollectible accounts and non-profit organizations that are available to help citizens pay their utilities.

No action will be taken on this item and it will be removed from the committee's roster.

B Discussion on Sewer/Water Rate Increase Cycle of 3 or 5 years

Jamison explained that this idea arose as a result of the recent water rate increases. Questions were raised about the need to have a rate study done each year when the numbers from the study are predicted out from 1-7 years. Cotter gave reasons for conducting yearly rate increase studies. Discussion followed about the unknown costs involved with Lewis & Clark coming online next year.

Jamison said that while Cotter explained that this isn't a good idea at the present time, he would like this idea possibly reviewed again in the future. Cotter explained that the approximate cost of a consultant per user per year is approximately 55 cents. Cotter said that one way to cut down on the cost for consultants would be to reduce the time they spend giving public presentations, i.e. having public works relay the information rather than the consultants. Brown said that was a good idea to consider.

No action will be taken on this item and it will be removed from the committee's roster.

C Fraud Hotline Protocol/Policy

Rich Oksol, Lead Internal Auditor, handed out copies of a sample fraud policy and a South Dakota Board of Regents Fraud Policy. He explained that the city has had a fraud hotline since 2008. He explained the process that occurs when a call is received and said that the activity is minimal. It was the consensus of the committee to request Oksol to return to the Fiscal Committee in November with a draft a fraud and whistleblowers policy for further discussion.

D Land Management and Financial Management Software Project Update by Tracy Turbak, Director of Finance

Tom Huber, Finance, gave a short update on this project. He said that it was important to note that these are two separate applications that are being proposed: the financial system includes accounting purchasing, human resources and payroll functions and the land management system includes the planning, zoning and engineering components. He explained why new systems are being considered, what tasks have been completed thus far, what tasks remain, project team structure and how the project is being funded. Brown thanked Huber for the update and said that the committee will rely on his expertise to decide when another update to the committee is necessary.

4. Open Discussion

Brown stated that the Sioux Empire Fair City Sales Tax issue will be discussed at the Fiscal Committee Meeting on Monday, October 3, 2011. He asked the Assistant City Clerk to invite to the Minnehaha County Commissioners and their staff and the Sioux Empire Fair Administrative Staff to that meeting.
