Directors of major organizational units or their designee, in coordination with the City Finance Department, shall identify solid waste, solid waste by-products, recyclable materials, and scrap materials that may not be in the City's best interest to classify as surplus government property. The Directors or their designee, in coordination with the City Finance Department, will identify reasonable prospective buyers or sellers and may negotiate the conditions of such transactions with prospective buyers or sellers, including price, delivery, transport, and quantity, to obtain the price or conditions most advantageous to the City. The Directors or their designee may authorize procedures for adjusting the value of solid waste, solid waste by-products, recyclable materials, and scrap materials to meet changing market conditions that are not within the control of the purchaser or seller. No City Council member and no officer of the City may purchase or acquire the materials described in this section unless such materials are available for sale to or acquisition by the general public.

Materials will be evaluated by type and/or classification to help determine the appropriate frequency for checking prices due to past experience, volatility of markets, and other factors as deemed necessary. Type of material to be evaluated could be solid waste, solid waste by-products, recyclable materials, or scrap materials. Classification is based on volatility of market. Recommended frequency for checking prices could be any time frame such as daily, weekly, monthly, annually, etc.

Once sufficient material has accumulated, a decision will be necessary on how best to proceed. To determine if the material has a marketable value, the Director or their designee will obtain at least two price quotes, when possible, for items to be transferred or sold. If it is not possible to obtain multiple quotes and only one quote is received, the Director or their designee will use best professional judgment to determine if the material should be marketed at that time.

Prices will be checked against industry-accepted market prices, if available, to help determine accuracy and validity of quotes. Prices for items to be sold shall be based on the current market value and adjusted as the market price fluctuates. The City Finance Department shall ensure that any adjustments shall be in accordance with any existing contract or agreement. These prices shall be set on a per weight or volume basis.
